GOVERNMENT'S MOTION FOR COMPLEX CASE FINDING AND TO CONTINUE TRIAL DATE BEYOND LIMITS SET BY THE SPEEDY TRIAL ACT

Comes now the United States of America by and through its attorneys, Richard G. Callahan, United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Missouri and Thomas Rea and Michael A. Reilly, Assistant United States Attorneys for said District, and requests the Court, pursuant to Title 18, United States Code, Sections 3161(h)(7)(A) and (B)(i) and (ii), to make findings that: (1) the case is so unusual or so complex that it is unreasonable to expect adequate preparation for pretrial proceedings or for the trial itself within the time limits established by the Speedy Trial Act, and (2) that the failure to grant a continuance to determine whether and what pretrial motions should be filed in the proceeding would result in a miscarriage of justice.

The government, in support of its motion, states as follows:

1. This case involves a long-term continuing criminal enterprise, drug distribution conspiracies, several drug related homicides, and firearms violations, in which eighteen defendants are charged in twenty counts.

2. Four of the defendants are charged with death eligible offenses.

3. The government estimates that the trial in this case would last multiple weeks depending upon the number of defendants electing to proceed to trial. A more accurate estimate can be made when the number of defendants electing to go to trial has been determined.

4. There are multiple factors contributing to the complexity of this case:

A. The discovery in this case is voluminous and includes numerous separate Title III applications, affidavits, and orders that resulted in thousands of contacts by either electronic or wire communications for several target telephones.

B. There were a large number of search warrants executed during this long term investigation which resulted in the seizure of physical evidence or data from phones seized during the investigation. Much of this evidence relates to a high volume of electronic data obtained from searches of cellular phones or electronic devices. Moreover, investigators have recently executed at least eight additional search warrants of real property, in which additional evidence has been seized.

C. There were multiple applications for Precision Location Warrants or other process and orders related to the investigation.

D. There are multiple arguably suppressible events that occurred during the course of this extended investigation, which lasted approximately two years. Defense counsel will need time to consider the potential issues.

E. There is the potential of Rule 404(b) evidence pertaining to several defendants.

F. Several of the charged offenses are death eligible. The Government is currently processing materials related to a determination from the Attorney General for permission to seek or not seek the death penalty.

5. The government has been working on the investigation for some time and would be prepared to try this case within the time limits set forth under the Speedy Trial Act. However, the government recognizes that in light of the number of defendants, the nature of the conspiracy charges, and the sheer volume of discovery, it is unreasonable to expect the defense to have adequate preparation for pretrial proceedings or for the trial itself within the time limits established by the Speedy Trial Act.

6. Additional time would likely assist defendants and defense counsel in fully reviewing discovery, deciding whether to file pretrial motions, and preparing for trial and/or completing plea negotiations with the government.

7. Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code, Sections 3161(h)(7)(A) and (B)(i) and (ii) and for all the foregoing reasons, the United States requests this Court to make specific findings that the trial of this matter should be continued past the limits set by the Speedy Trial Act because the ends of justice served by continuing this case outweigh the best interest of the public and the defendants in a speedy trial, and the case is so unusual and so complex that it is unreasonable to expect adequate preparation for pretrial proceedings and the failure to exclude this period would likely result in a miscarriage of justice.

WHEREFORE, the Government requests that the Court make such findings, set a motion deadline and an evidentiary hearing consistent with the complexity of the case, and order the time elapsed between any motion waivers and trial setting excluded from Speedy Trial Act calculation. 18 U.S.C. §3161(h)(7)(A), (B)(i), and (B)(ii).

Respectfully submitted,
